A Wee Bit of a Mistake! An altereation occurred in one of the public departments in this city, on the 18th instant, between a government clerk and the Hon. George W. Jones. Having grounds for hoping that the sun would not be permitted to go down on the wrath of these gentlemen, and that cool reflection would condemn the actions of an excited moment, we refrained from giving publicity to the unpleasant, and we must add unworthy, occuryence. The story, however, was published abroad, and the press has freely spoken of it. We quote the following from the Pittsburg Daily Union, a very Demacratic journal, which appears to be disposed to Pake great political capital out of the affair; but before we do so, we would remark that the Hon. G. W. Jones, of Tennessee, is a real, firm, genuine, hard-shell old Democrat, and as we believe, of no kin whatever, in consanguinity or politics, to Senator "Jimmy Jones," whom the Union strikes at, and who often uses still more powerful weapons, though of another kind! The Union says:

"CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT .- The following statement, which we find in the Philadelphia Sun, is one of the most forcible illustrations of official bullying that has been recorded for many years. This George W. Jones is one of the 'crack' Whig orators, statesmen, and candidates for the Presi

Here follows an account of the fight.

"From our knowledge of the gentlemen who fill the offices of clerks in the various departments at the seat of government, we are satisfied that Mr. Van Wyck spoke nothing but the truth; and we very much doubt if a more honorable and upright set of gentlemen than they are-taken as a body-can be found in the world. They are faithful and attentive to their duties; and, even if they have no vote where they live, are not the slaves of bullying members of Congress!"

We assent to what the Union says of the clerks, but must protest against its abuse of Mr. Jones. We condemn his course toward Mr. Van Wyck with all our heart, but protest against his being called by such hard names. We do not believe the tenor of his life will warrant such abusive epithets; and, Democrat as he is, we call upon the Union, by all that is just, honorable, and truthful, to withdraw its harsh aspersions. If Governor Jones had been the culprit, we should not have uttered a word in his defence, for in making such flings at him the Union would simply appear ridiculous. But when it attacks a member of its own party in high position, the world may possibly think it means to tell the truth, and so accredit it. The Union really must ke back its bullying denunciations!

It Works Well!

The game grows desperate, and the pure Democracy are using desperate means. To this we have no objections to urge. The American people need only the stimulating influence of jacobin abuse to prompt them to arise in their might, and vindicate the fame of a patriot who will live upon the scroll of fame as long as history shall reproach it was not born to bear!

But the Democracy are growing desperate, and the evidences of their hostility are desperately base and wicked.

As a sample of the vileness of their malignity, we append the remarks of the Trenton True American. It speaks of General Scott as

"AN ARROGANT, PEEVISH, ILLIBERAL COMMANDER, WHOSE MILITARY VANITY ABSORBS EVERY GENEROUS IMPULSE, WHOSE PETTY JEALOUSY PREVENTS HIM FROM RECOGNISING MERIT IN OTH-ISH EXTREMES OF UNWARRANTED SUSPI-CION AND THE GROSSEST INJUSTICE." It adds :

"THE FACT IS, GENARAL SCOTT CANNOT STAND PROSPERITY, AND IS ONE OF THOSE FRAIN FROM PLAYING 'FANTASTIC TRICKS SINCE HIS ENTRANCE IN THE ARMY HE HAS MANAGED TO KEEP HIMSELF IN . HOT WATER' WITH HIS SUPERIORS, BROTHER FAILING TO COME OFF 'SECOND BEST.'

If abuse so loose, so false, so malignant and so contemptible, does not disgust all good and true men, the American people have fallen from the high position the world accredits them with occupying. Verdict in the Case of Day.

A despatch to the Baltimore Sun and other papers says that "this unexpected result is solely attributed to the powerful efforts of his counsel, Joseph H. Bradley, esq." There is great, though we doubt not unintentional, injustice done here; for never did the advocate of an unhappy criminal perform his task more ably or creditably than did E. C. Morgan, esq., in this case. Mr. Bradupon him; but we happen to know that he has regarded the efforts of his worthy associate with feelings of very high admiration.

Mr. Barney and the French Minister-

We are authorized to state that, after a careful examination of the documents submitted by the Minister from France to sustain an action for libel, which were promptly admitted by Mr. Barney to be genuine, the Grand Jury have decided, with great unanimity, that no presentment shall be made—thus finally dismissing the complaint from the calendar.

Columbian College.

The annual commencement of this institution was held yesterday morning in the E-street Bapwere delivered by young gentlemen of the grad- California. Adopted. nating class; after which, the ceremony of the conferring of degrees was performed by the Rev. Dr. Bacon, the president of the college.

In the evening, at the same place, a numerou audience was entertained by an address of much spirit and interest, delivered before the alumni Sault Ste. Marie was taken up and debated. association of the college by the Hon. F. P. Stanton, of Tennessee, an alumnus of the insti tution.

We are gratified to learn that, although the college has been in a depressed condition, energetic means are now being adopted by the board of trustees, amongst whom are some of our prominent and public-spirited citizens, to place the institution in a condition much more efficient and attractive than it has hitherto been. Among these measures, as we are informed, are the immediate appointment of additional professors and the improvement of the college buildings and grounds. A general agent of much energy and influence has undertaken to obtain such additional means as are needed for these purposes, and has already met with much success. The people of this city and District have a deep interest in the fostering of this, amongst other institutions of learning in their vicinity, and may manifest that interest by aiding in its endowment, as well as by the education of their sons, without sending them to distant institutions. They may thus, within a very short time, render the Columbian College a flourishing and prosperous institution, and an additional attraction to our metropolis.

A Correction. So far as this paper was known to the public, it was known that it was under the exclusive conool of General Duff Green and B. E. Green, esq., for some time prior to the 28th of January last and that it was never under the exclusive charge of its present editor until that date. The Winchester Virginian, making no mention of these facts, (which, we are sorry to believe, are within the knowledge of its able editors,) endeavors to and false philanthropy of the Abolitionists have been so long and industriously disseminated. luding to the expression of sentiments disavowed by him, on taking control of its columns on that date in the following words:

We understand that a supply of the work is expected in a few days by Messrs. John M. Cooper & Co., of this city. date, in the following words:

"In expressing our distaste for the subjects that have at times occupied the columns of this paper, we disclaim the intention of indicating any other sentiments than those of respect for the writers and the motives that have actuated them. Their convictions and ours are not alike : yet, though we may not labor for the same objects, we presume no censure of motives is hence necessarily involved. Had their permanent connexion with this paper been finally determined, our permanent estrangement from its columns would have been inevitable. But such has not been the case; and we shall not conceal the pleasure we realize in resuming our daily com-munion with a people toward whom we entertain every sentiment that can enhance the agreeableness of that intercourse.

The extensive influence of party zeal on the minds of even good men is often very great; yet the misrepresentation, the slur, and the sneer of the Virginian, we must confess it, have some- the South from the cruel and unjust aspersions what surprised us.

The Tribune rejoins: "We have noted no less than twenty large ratification meetings in these States, and presume the actual number has exceeded fifty. In every one of them, Gen. But, since ungrateful without inflicting upon the nation a that journal obstinately won't, we shall try to afford the needed information."

"Uncle Tom's Cabin."

This, our readers are aware, is the title of novel first published in a series of numbers in the National Era, and republished in book form by a New York house. It has proved, as we believe, the most profitable work ever issued from the American press. It has great literary merit, but embodies an argument against slavery that has perhaps formed a prominent attraction.

But the fair author (Mrs. Stowe) is not destined to enjoy undisputed possession of the field. The Savannah News contains the following

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN AS IT IS."-This book, by W. L. G. Smith, esq., is an answer to the famous Abolition story by Mrs. H. Beecher Stowe, entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The writer has endeavored to illustrate Southern life and the relations of master and slave as they exist; and, from the very favorable notices which we have seen of the work, we judge that it is destined to do much good in those sections of the country where the morbid sentimentality

The Southern Press of a recent date also contained the following:

"A REPLY TO UNCLE TOM'S CABIN .- We have been favored by the authoress, Mrs. Eastman, of this city—the gifted lady of Capt. Eastman, of the army-with some of the chapters of a forthcoming work from her pen, intended as an offset to Mrs. Stowe's Abolition novel. We have not had the pleasure of perusing Mrs. Eastman's novel, which is shortly to appear; but competent judges, who have, pronounce it to be highly interesting; and we know, from proofs she ready given, that she possesses the ability to make it so. One of her productions, illustrative of Indian character, and detailing many of the wild legends of the Northwestern tribes, (among whom her husband was for a time stationed, first introduced her to our acquaintance, and is the guaranty of her capacity for the task she has now undertaken. It is, indeed, a noble task for a Southern woman to vindicate her brethren of of their Northern sister, who coins her dollars of profit at a risk of their being the price of blood."

The Fisheries.

"lon," the intelligent correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, who has the happy faculty of condensing much information into a small space, thus places before us the grounds of the present misunderstanding:

"The question which has arisen between this country and Great Britain, in regard to the fishing rights of the citizens of the United States, on the shores of the British American possessions, is one of great importance. The fishing interests the fishing interest lagged until it was encou raged by bounties, which it still enjoys from this

"The rights secured under that treaty were held by the war of 1812. The treaty of Ghent was silent on the subject. But a convention was made with Great Britain, in 1818, which defined, though it somewhat circumscribed, our privileges. A difficulty arose prior to 1845, between our fishermen and the British colonial authorities, as to the construction of the terms of that convention, in an important particular. The British insisted that, by the privilege given to the United States to fish within three marine miles of the coast, we were not permitted to come within three miles of the headlands. The Yankees, on the contrary, insisted upon the right of sweeping along the coast within three miles of headlands are to be the boundaries, and there is to be no fishing within three miles of them, no fish can be taken in the bays and inlets, where cod and mackerel most abound. Mr. Stevenson, our Minister in England in 1845, urged upon the British government a proper regard to our construction of the convention of 1818. He was so far successful that Lord Stanley requested Lord Faulkland to suffer the question to lie till it could be further examined; and it appears that he was in favor of the American construction From a report to the New York Councils we The decision of the British government was, ul-It is this question which is now the chief origin of the present difficulty. The British authorities will seize American vessels fishing within three miles of the headlands.

"Our fishermen had also the right to land and dry fish on certain unsettled and uninhabited shores. They may, it is said, have abused this privilege. But it is known that the authorities of Prince Edward Island were desirous that the Americans should be allowed to land there : for by that means alone could they derive any profit from the fisheries, which they were not them-selves engaged in. They petitioned the British government to allow the Americans to land and cure their fish, and trade, &c. "The people of the British provinces do not, own banks; and they attribute the success of the Vankees to the encouragement which they receive from the United States government, not

Mr. Rush negotiated the convention of 1818, and he can, no doubt, settle some of the questions that have arisen as to the construction of its terms.

"An arrangement could be easily made with Great Britain, partly by litigation and partly by treaty, or altogether by treaty, for the adjust-American provinces. Sir Henry Bulwer, when he was here, proposed a negotiation with a view

The regular weekly meeting of this Club held in the hall over Copp's Saloon last night-WALTER LENOX, esq., president, in the chair. This hall will probably be retained by the Club for its meetings throughout the summer. It is spacious, airy, and in every respect convenient. The meeting last evening was strictly of a ousiness character; and various propositions for the promotion of the cause were introduced, and disposed of in a business-like manner.

The appointment was ordered of a delegation to attend the great Whig festival at Niagara on Tuesday next.

This Club is well organized, and will prove efficient in the service of the Whig army. We trust that the name of every good Whig in our city may soon be found upon its rolls.

The EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE of this Club was organized by appointing Thomas C. Connolly chairman, and S. A. H. McKim secretary. It is requested and hoped that a full meeting of this committee will assemble, at the hall above named, on Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock.
